EXCELLENCE

Tom Eldridge, a skilled custom builder and president of Panama Properties, Inc, founded this company in 1983. Tom has been building great homes in Atlanta's most prestigious neighborhoods for over 30 years, but still maintains the boyish enthusiasm and excitement for every project that he had at the beginning of his career.

Resembling in amazing detail his company's logo, the Panama-hatted, bearded and twinkling eyed Tom Eldridge is above all a "people person," who believes the relationship between builder and buyer is one of the most important factors in creating customer satisfaction. Our great success in establishing positive relationships is based on trust and respect, which allows us to create and deliver a quality home. "The more personal interaction we have, the happier we are," Tom contends. "That gives us the tools we need to give the client what they expect."

Whether traditional or contemporary in design, Panama Properties' homes combine distinctive detailing with livable designs. Known for its ability to unite cutting-edge materials and Old World craftsmanship, Panama Properties' talented team works hand-in-hand with its clients to create singular statements of lifestyle.

Prospective homebuyers can be assured Panama Properties is a truly professional organization. It is an active member of the Greater Atlanta Home Builders Association and a Certified Professional Home Builder, meeting and maintaining the program's high criteria professionalism, customer service and customer satisfaction.

Panama Properties' homes can be found in some of Atlanta's finest communities, such as River's Call, Citadella, Litchfield One Hundred and Tiller Walk.
